

HURLEY CAPTURES THE SECOND GAME

Defeats Bayard on Water Soaked Diamond; Is Now Tied With Santa Rita.

Hurley, N. M., April 12.—Hurley won the second game of the series with Port Bayard Sunday afternoon on the local grounds, after 11 innings of hard fought baseball, by the score of 2 to 0. By winning this game the local team is now tied with the Santa Rita club in the first half of the Copper league season. Many brilliant individual plays, despite the water soaked diamond, were pulled off by members of both teams.

A lot of credit for the victory of Hurley goes to Sorenson, the hard hitting center fielder of the local team. His home run in the fourth inning and a three base hit were important factors in the victory of the Copper league team. Sorenson, who is a native of the local town, broke up the game in the third inning, and kept both players and fans under cover for 20 minutes after which play was resumed.

In Sorenson's First Appearance. Sorenson, the smoke Hurley batter on the club, both Nells and Sorenson, who broke up the game in the third inning, and kept both players and fans under cover for 20 minutes after which play was resumed.

HITTING HELPS SANTA RITA WIN

Mack's Clever Pitching Is Also Aid to Visitors in Defeating Silver City.

Silver City, N. M., April 12.—Opportunity hitting and superb pitching on the part of twirler Mack, of the Santa Rita Diggers, gave the visitors the second game of the series here Sunday afternoon by the score of 7 to 2. Errors by Medina and Gurtz, shortstop and second baseman of the Indians, enabled the visitors to achieve across the winning run.

It was the initial appearance of Mack, the Santa Rita twirler, on the diamond this season. Marshall, who was a member of the El Paso White Sox during the Chicago league season of 1913, played for the Indians, but his errors behind him, six by Medina and two by Gurtz, aided the run making to a considerable extent.

Earl Hartman, one time third sacker of the El Paso club, and now with Santa Rita, distinguished himself by knocking out a home run over the left field fence in the second inning. He led both clubs at bat, with two hits out of four times at bat.

An error, a wild pitch, and two successive singles, promoted two runs for Santa Rita in the initial inning. After Kirchman had pitched first and went to second on a wild pitch, he was stricken on Tommy Smith's single center field. Smith scored a moment later on Robinson's drive into left.

Freddie Owen's single and a sacrifice enabled the local team to make one run in the second inning. Mack's superb pitching kept the local team from scoring in the fourth for Silver City, and opportunity hitting netted three runs for Santa Rita in the fifth. Errors by Medina and Gurtz in the early part of the inning filled the bases, and Robinson scored two of the visitors with a sacrifice. Mack pitched a fourth inning, which ended in the former being touched out at third base, after one more run had been scored.

Buckles, landed man for the Indians, in the ninth inning shot a single and later scored on a sacrifice.

Santa Rita Team Wins Opening Game. Christens New Diamond at Copper League Opening by Defeating Silver City.

Santa Rita, N. M., April 12.—The Santa Rita team christened its new diamond and celebrated the opening of the Copper League season by defeating Silver City 7 to 2. The locals outlasted the visitors in every department.

Freddie Owen, of the visitors, was early humiliated out of the box. Eaton, Santa Rita's new twirler, put over his right ball for the first five sessions, but closed up in the sixth, when the game was on. The new diamond made fielding easier and this in a measure accounts for the even score. The visitors' game was witnessed by a large crowd, including president James, of the Copper League.

WHO IS HE?

ABOUT 25 years ago the passengers on an accommodation train running through the upper part of New York state were suddenly startled by a heated discussion between the "butch" boy and a lanky young man over the possibility of making a baseball career.

After listening awhile, other passengers joined in to make fun of the spirited young "butch," who claimed that he could make a ball curve two feet in twenty yards. The boy appealed to the conductor and, after betting all his wages and hooking up his candy and papers, got the train stopped for ten minutes while he went out and, using the lanky man as a backdrop, made the ball curve half way around a barrel that had been placed directly in front of the catcher.

That you may be put right at the start, this young man is not a pitcher, but he has acquired more than his share of baseball fame and fortune.

After winning that bet on the curve ball, he joined a team in upper New York state, first as a pitcher and then as an infielder. Later, he went into the big league at the age of 17 and played on three pennant winning clubs. He is one of the few who batted an average of .325 for ten years.

There is no telling how long he would have lasted as a star player but for an accident. While in a hot game at Brooklyn one afternoon he was spiked in the knee and was never able to do much running thereafter.

This young man was naturally a left field hitter, but, in a unique way, trained himself so that he could hit the ball in right field whenever he so desired. While playing on a championship club, he and a friend, deciding that their education had been neglected, took a course at a well known college. On the left field side of the college ball ground there was a building with many windows. Every time one of these windows was broken by a left field drive it cost 25 cents and a calling down from the head professor. There was nothing to be done but to hit in right field, and our young hero and his friend kept trying until they could crack the ball in that direction. Returning to the big league the next spring, they could hit the ball in almost any direction desired.

Notwithstanding the injury that practically ruined the former "butch" as an infielder, he has been in the limelight constantly for more than 20 years. He has drawn a share of more world's series money, with the exception of two pitchers, than any man in the game.

This young man has no intention of retiring. In fact, his loss to his employers would be so heavily felt that they have taken out an insurance policy on his life for $100,000.

MAJOR LEAGUES ARE READY FOR SEASON

New York, April 13.—On the eve of the major league baseball season, the executives and managers of the American and National leagues predict another six months of exciting pennant races and general prosperity. Organized baseball, ignoring the invasion of its field by the Federal league, reiterates its faith in the loyalty of its followers and the standard of the game as played by its clubs.

Both president Ben Johnson, of the American league, and president John K. Tener, of the National league, in outlining the prospects of their respective organizations for the 1914 season, express confidence in organized baseball will receive the confidence and support accorded it by the devotees of the game in past seasons. In fact, optimism, harmony and enthusiasm appear to be the words of the hour in the major leagues.
